COEN 11 - Practice V

Solutions on Wednesday

1. Write a void function to read numbers from a text file and insert into a linked list. The function receives the name of the file as argument.

2. Write a void function to write the numbers in the nodes of a liked list into a text file. The function receives the name of the file as argument.

3. Write an int function to return the number of occurrences of numbers greater than 100 in a text file. The function receives the file pointer as argument.

4. Write an int function to return the average of the int numbers read from a text file. The function receives the file pointer as argument.